

"Hellzapoppin" Rowdies To Visit Paul Whiteman Show

John Charles Thomas Program Ranges From Sanderson To Prokofieff Sunday; Spitalny Features Gershwin

A double portion of madness and music will be the "Paul Whiteman Presents" offering Sunday, WEAJ 8 p. m., EWT.

Comedyland's wackiest wacks, Olsen and Johnson, will be Pop's headline guests. During the quieter moments, Dinah Shore will sing, Pops will conduct the orchestra and Bill Goodwin will try to tie the proceedings together as if the "Hellzapoppin" rowdies weren't in the house.

The John Charles Thomas show for Sunday at 2:30 p. m. EWT, over WEAJ, will offer a wide range of musical selections. Programmed for summer listening, the bill presents a recent movie tune, "For Me and My Gal" alongside such a standard work as Kreisler's "Caprice Viennois" and such a musical novelty as the "Peter Theme" from Prokofieff's "Peter and the Wolf." John Nesbitt, the program's story-teller, will salute the men of the sea in a tale called "Merchant Marine."

The Hour of Charm, featuring Phil Spitalny and his all-girl orchestra, pays tribute to one of America's great musical geniuses when they devote the entire program to the works of George Gershwin. The Hour of Charm can be heard at 10 p. m. EWT over WEAJ Sunday.

Preston Foster, director of the new "Silver Theater" series, will do "double-duty" on the program Sunday, at 6 p. m., EWT over WABC when he co-stars with the guest of the evening, screen-star Ellen Drew, in a drama entitled "China Bridge."

A musical pot-pourri, sprinkled with red hot gags and left to simmer for a half-hour, will emerge as a new dish known as "Full Speed Ahead," this to be the "Sneak Preview" presentation for Sunday, at 5:30 p. m. EWT, on WJZ.

Actress Judith Evelyn will step out of character to make a plea for nurse recruitment following the play on "That They Might Live" Sunday, WEAJ, 12:30 p. m., EWT). And she'll be speaking from the heart. For Miss Evelyn, who will be heard in the play as a Red Cross nurse's aid, owes much to Red Cross aid at the most crucial moment in her life.

Tenor Jack Smith joins Al Goodman, his orchestra and chorus in a spirited opening number—Vincent Youmans' "Flying Down to Rio"—that sets the pace for this second Sunday of the "Family Hour" summer series. (WABC) 5 p. m., EWT.)

"The Murdered Never Die," a harrowing whodunit with a dilly of a denouement, written by that arch mystery writer Milton Lewis, is "Inner Sanctum Mystery's" cheerful pulse-pounder for Sunday, at 8:30 p. m., EWT, over WJZ.

Warm summer nights and moonlit skies inspire the "Album of Familiar Music" to turn to another page of love and romance for Sunday (WEAJ, 9:30 p. m. EWT). Frank Munn and the choir sing "The Night Is Young and You're So Beautiful."

Col. Lemuel Q. Stoopnagle, world's foremost example of the selfishness of mother-love, reveals another side of his amazing versatility when he appears as guest star with the "Chamber Music Society of Lower Basin Street." Sunday at 9:15 p. m., EWT, over WJZ.

Nan Merriman, lovely young mezzo-soprano, feels like a modern Cinderella. This time, however, the Fairy Godmother's magic wand is really the magic baton of Maestro Arturo Toscanini, who has selected Nan to sing with the Summer Symphony orchestra in the all-Verdi program Sunday, (WEAJ) 5 p. m., EWT).

J. Edgar Hoover, head of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, will be the principal speaker on the "This Is Official" broadcast over WJZ, Sunday, at 1 p. m., EWT, answering queries reflecting the work of his G-Men in wartime.
