

Cantor Announces Trust Fund Details Wednesday

Some unsuspecting "GI Joe," now living perhaps in a cramped fox-hole or standing watch on a Navy ship, soon will be richer by a trust fund of $5,000 established by Eddie Cantor as an experiment in post-war adaptation of our fighting personnel. Full details of the nationwide search will be announced by the comedian himself on his "Time to Smile" program Wednesday, over WEAf at 8 p. m., EST.

Kay Kyser goes from the latest hit, "Mairzy Doats," all the way back to "Sweet Georgia Brown" for the music on his "College of Musical Knowledge" over station WEAf Wednesday at 9 p. m. Other tunes featuring vocalists Harry Babbitt, Georgia Carroll and Sully Mason are "Don't Sweetheart Me," "When They Ask About You," "Couldn't Sleep a Wink Last Night," "My Ideal" and "After You've gone."

"The Case of the Breeders of Hate," a drama about agitators, will be solved by "Mr. District Attorney" Wednesday over WEAf at 8:30 p. m., EST.

The mystery involves a professional agitator who, in plying his trade, becomes involved, unwittingly, with the Nazis.

"Mr. and Mrs. North" present a case taken straight from the OPA files, when they broadcast "The Norths Run Out of Gas," on Wednesday at 7 p. m. over station WEAf. Counterfeiting of gasoline ration coupons is the racket of the criminals dealt with in this story, which was suggested by OPA officials, who gave "Mr. and Mrs. North" authors access to their files in order to acquaint the public with the dangers of dealing with ration chiselers. Joseph Curtin and Alice Frost star as "Mr. and Mrs. North."
