

George McManus And Peggy Fears Are Queen's Guests

George McManus, cartoonist of "Maggie and Jiggs," and Peggy Fears, singer, will be guest armchair detectives when Ellery Queen solves "The Adventures of the Letters of Blood" Saturday over WEAF at 6:30 p. m., EST).

Clues to this mystery result in Ellery's sending messages to an air base in the South Pacific, to South America and even to Teheran, but the murdered millionaire already has left the important key to his own death.

Barry Wood is consulting tailors and Patsy Kelly is rushing around to couturieres these days in a mad effort to spruce up as befits a host and hostess greeting a splendiferous guest on their "Million Dollar Party," Saturday over WEAF at 9 p. m., EST. And the guest will be none other than Adolphe Menjou, bon vivant par excellence and the leading exponent of what Hollywood will wear.

Anne Nichols' beloved radio series, "Abie's Irish Rose," will broadcast its 100th performance Saturday, to a world which has all too little of the tolerance it preaches. A studio party will follow the centenary of the Irish-Jewish series over WEAF, Saturday at 7 p. m., EST.

With five guests on hand to help celebrate, the National Barn Dance gang observes its 550th broadcast on WEAF Saturday at 8 p. m.

The Maple City Four, old Barn Dance regulars, will stop by the hayloft to toss the melodic bouquet, "I'm Mighty Proud Of That Old Gang Of Mine." Cindy Walker, guest thrush for the evening, will do one of her own numbers.
