A LITTLE SATURDAY TALK: EARLY USE OF COAL

A nine-year-old girl, Roberta Isaacs, writes:

"I would like to know how the Greeks discovered coal and how they knew how to use it. I would also like to know who got the idea of postage stamps, because I have a collection. I see you are a wizard at answering questions."

Roberta gives me too much credit when she says I am a "wizard" about answering questions, but I like to take up such interesting questions as this young reader speaks of in her letter.
