

Story Of First Woman Medic Stars Loretta Young Monday

The amazing story of an amazing woman, Dr. Elizabeth Blackwell, the first woman doctor, provides Loretta Young with her "Cavalcade of America" vehicle when she plays "Doctor in Crinolins" at 7 p. m. Monday over Station WEAJ. The heroine of this real life drama was the founder of the first medical school for women, and she was the first doctor, male or female, to preach preventive medicine. Robert Ambroster and his orchestra provide the original background music for the story.

Ronald Colman and Maureen O'Sullivan have been cast by producer Cecil B. DeMille to star in the Radio Theatre version of the fantasy, "Berkeley Square." The full hour show is heard at 8 p. m. every Monday over WABC.

The rarer than rare commodity, cigarettes . . . duffel bags filled with them, will go to the convalescents at two different naval hospitals during Bob Hawk's "Thanks to the Yanks" quiz over WABC at 6:30 p. m. Monday. Recipients of the smokes are the Brooklyn Naval hospital, Brooklyn, N. Y., and the Yosemite National Park Naval hospital, Colo. The program questions will be speeded with Lynn

Gardner's singing and music by Peter Van Stouden's orchestra.
