

Ol' Professor Will Stage Exams At Marine Station

Kay Kyser, the Ol' Professor, and his "College of Musical Knowledge" faculty, will give a few advanced exams at the Marine Supply depot at Barstow, Calif., for the Wednesday semester, at 9 p. m., over Station WEA. The Army has been invited to sit in on the classroom session and the "College" quiz will feature a contest between leather-necks and dogfaces.

"The North: Finish a Finishing School" and chalk up another mystery solution when a murderer erases one of the former pupils, on Wednesday at 7 p. m., over Station WEA. Pam takes Jerry to her class reunion over his protests, but when he spots some of her exquisite ex-classmates he becomes ecstatic. His interest grows still more after one of them is killed, and it's almost his finish before the killer is caught. Alice Frost and Joseph Curtin star in the title roles.

Ellery Queen, debonair gentleman sleuth of radio, fiction and screen, will have a new "Nikki" for his series of detective adventures over WABC. He will present "The Adventure of the Diamond Fence" on the premiere program, Wednesday at 6:30 p. m., with a guest armchair detective, who will guess the solution to a mystery in a shabby rooming house in Greenwich Village.

AWARDS GIVEN SCHOOL PAPERS

COLUMBUS, Jan. 24—(UP)—The Zanesvillian, school organ at Zanesville Lash high school, has been awarded a $50 first prize in the Ohio Public Health-assn's state-wide competition.

The award was presented for an editorial in the paper's Dec. 3 issue entitled "Christmas Seals Save Lives" which described Zanesville's tuberculosis control programs.

The association said the editorial was rated best of hundreds of news and feature stories as well as editorial submitted by Ohio high schools.

First award in the feature class went to The Black and Gold, Cleveland Heights high school, and to the Lincoln Log, Cleveland Lincoln high school.
