

"The Road Ahead" Program To Be Aired From Hospital

Grace Moore, Metropolitan opera soprano, and "The Groaner," Bing Crosby, join the men of the Bethesda Naval hospital, in Maryland when "The Road Ahead" broadcasts from there on Wednesday, at 9 p. m., over Station WJZ. Miss Moore will visit the hospital to add her voice to the barbershop chords of the service men there, while Crosby, in a "hospital call" from Hollywood, will engage in a man-to-man chat with a wounded sailor. Clifton Fadiman, of "Information Please" fame, serves as master of ceremonies of this series, and conducts its informal "town meeting" style discussion of current news and problems. "The Road Ahead" is presented jointly by the Army, Navy, American Red Cross and American industry, and features wounded servicemen as well as leading stars of the entertainment world. David Brockman conducts the orchestra.

Kay Kyser and his "College of Musical Knowledge" play a date at a GI redistribution center when they broadcast from Santa Barbara, Cal., Redistribution Center on Wednesday, at 10 p. m. over Station WFAF. On hand for the mirth and melody are Georgia Carroll, Dolly Mitchell, Diane Pendleton, Michael Douglas and the "College of Musical Knowledge" orchestra with Kay at the helm.

Death brings tragedy to a runaway marriage on Ellery Queen's "Adventure of the Murdered Moths," which Jack Gaver, drama critic and Broadway columnist of the United Press, will try to solve as the guest armchair detective, Wednesday, at 7:30 p. m. over WABC.
