Paratroopers To Rescue Trio In Shangri-La

HOLLANDIA, Dutch New Guinea, June 5—(Delayed)—(AP)—A wartime air tragedy has unlocked in dramatic fashion the mysterious "hidden valley of Shangri-La."

Paratroopers were the first men from the outside world to invade the isolated field in the valley, 150 miles southwest of Hollandia, to rescue a 30-year-old WA and two Army airmen.

(A dispatch today, June 8, from Manila by Associated Press Correspondent Dean Scheduler, said the rescue still had not been effected but the survivors were "safe and living comfortably.")

The trio are the only survivors among 24 Army personnel in a
