

Secret Weapons' Story To Be Aired Wednesday

Hermann Goering stood at the English Channel, fuming because the British Royal Air Force seemed to anticipate every move of the Luftwaffe, and to be there in sufficient numbers to break up every attack. A Japanese battleship and her escort of cruisers were sent to the bottom by American ships they never saw, off Guadalcanal. Those were two dramatic applications of one of the most secret weapons of World War II, radar, the story of which will be told on "The Human Adventure," in its broadcast over Station WOR, Wednesday at 10 p. m.

Cantor's Cozy Cabana turns all out for the military on "Wednesday With You," heard over WEAJ, 9 p. m.

Harry von Zell, Freddie Martel, Nora Martin and Leonard Sues do the honors when a high ranking officer from the European Theatre checks in at the Cabana for a guest starring stint in honor of Army Air Corps Day.

David Harding, sworn foe of saboteurs and spies, proves that even the smallest clue may have great significance in another timely episode of "Counterspy" entitled "The Case of the Tablecloth Doodle," to be heard Wednesday at 10 p. m. over WJZ.
