

Stewart And Hunt To Star In "Made For Each Other"

Jimmy Stewart and Marsha Hunt co-star in the Radio Theatre presentation of the heartwarming domestic drama, "Made for Each Other," at 9 p. m. Monday over CBS.

In the law offices of Doolittle, Messerschmidt, Doolittle and Hutch, young Johnny Mason, played by Stewart is struggling for a junior partnership in the firm. While on business in Boston he stops to take a cinder out of a pretty girl's eye, then marries her. The difficulties that ensue are terrific, but lady luck turns everything to sunshine.

CBS daytime shows will have a half hour of night time glory when Parks Johnson and Warren Hull interview actors, actresses and people behind the microphones, who play and produce the serials and other network broadcasts of the daylight hours on the "Vox Pop" program at 8 p. m. Monday over CBS.

Millions of listeners who may not be able to hear daytime "soap operas" and other types of shows, will be introduced to the dramatic players, sound effects men, directors, engineers and musicians who bring on CBS in the evening
