

Truman, Churchill To Talk On Special Program Tuesday

President Harry S. Truman and Winston Churchill will be heard on a special broadcast from Westminster college, Fulton, Mo., over MBS at 4:30 p. m. Tuesday. The talks will be made in connection with the ceremonies in which the college will confer the degree of doctor of law on both the President and Churchill.

Nick Carter, "Master Detective," will move to MBS for a show at 8 p. m. Tuesday. Nick's old time period on Sunday has been taken over by "Those Websters."

After a year's absence, Upton Close, dynamic American commentator, has returned to the air and is doing a 15-minute commentary at 10:15 p. m. Tuesday over MBS.

William Bendix stars as a police veteran who details the department to classify birds found in their city in "Here, Birdie, Birdie," on "This Is My Best" at 9:30 p. m. Tuesday over CBS.

Rivalry with a neighbor over the respective virtues of Bendix's daughter and the neighbor's son add to the humorous complications of the plot.

The Kingfish becomes an insurance salesman, with Andy as his first customer, on the "Amos 'n' Andy" show when that comedy series airs at 9 p. m. Tuesday over NBS. Flushed with success in his first sales attempt, the Kingfish tries for a second sale—with Andy again the prospect. The Kingfish trots out every trick in his bag, in an effort to get Andy's "X" on the dotted line.

Probably indicating their feeling about the Kingfish's chances of success, the Delta Rhythm Boys sing "I'm Always Chasing Rainbows."
