

Anne Shepherd To Be Guest On 'Inner Sanctum' Show

Guest ghostess Anne Shepherd, appearing behind the creaking door, experiences a shocking conflict between reality and hallucination in "Night Is My Shroud," a murder-packed "Inner Sanctum" mystery to be broadcast at 9 p. m. Tuesday over CBS.

This lovely young lady, returning home to convalesce from a nervous breakdown, opens her dumbwaiter door only to see a corpse topple out. With a hospital record of hal-lucinations, she has a tough time convincing the cops—and herself—that it isn't all a nightmare. The killer steps into the picture just in time to make her dream come true.

The young Irish film actress, Geraldine Fitzgerald is the star and "Mister Onion" is the story on "This is My Best" in its broadcast a 9:30 p. m. Tuesday over CBS. "Mister Onion" is a plaster doll, which represents to a child the love and protection which his career-minded parents overlook. The youngster's faith in the doll eventually leads the actress-mother to the discovery that she is first of all a mother.

By means of a bit of snooping which consists of reading a letter his wife has written her mother, the Kingfish learns that he is not quite the perfect man, and sets about improving himself on the "Amos 'n' Andy" show at 9 p. m. Tuesday over NBC.

A fantastic killing, recorded for posterity on eight phonography discs, but with the most of the vital statistics missing, is the unusual clue which puts "Nick Carter, Master Detective," on the trail of a year-old murder in "Eight Records of Death" to be

Radio Guide

TUESDAY, APR. 2

P. M.

- 6:45—Front Page Farrell Serial—nbc
Sparrow and Hawk—cbs
Tom Mix—mbs
- 6:59—News nbc
Quincy Howe—mbs
Robert of "Criminals"—nbc