

Alice Marble, Tennis Great, To Be Guest on 'Critic Show'

Alice Marble, one of the outstanding stars in the annals of women's tennis, makes a guest appearance on "Author Meets Critics, to defend her book, "The Road to Wimbledon," at 9:30 p. m. Wednesday over MBS. Defending her book will be radio commentator H. V. Kaltenborn, and offering the critical analysis will be Russell Maloney, former editor of the New Yorker magazine.

The screen classic, "Pinocchio," Walt Disney's Oscar-winning cartoon, will be dramatized for radio on the "Academy Award" program over CBS at 9 p. m. Telling of a doll which became a boy, the story has captivated children since it was first written in Italian by C. Collodi in 1890.

Since Bing Crosby signed a contract with ABC to transcribe his weekly shows beginning Oct. 16, there has been much talk among the members of the major networks as to whether transcribing programs will be universally accepted. At present, opinion seems to be evenly divided, with ABC the only out-and-out propagandist for the change.

"Mr. and Mrs. North" find themselves in the position of innocent bystanders this Wednesday at 7 p. m. over NBC. In trying to prevent a wife from murdering her husband, they succeed only in jeopardizing their own lives.

Xavier Cugat and Harry James will feature their arrangements of "I'll Never Love Again," the Spotlight tune of the week on the broadcasts of Wednesday and Friday at 8:30 p. m. over MBS.

When a crooked employment agency owner plants his girl accomplice in a private home, their burglary scheme results in murder during "The Cast of the Wrong Servant in the House" on "Mr. District Attorney," over NBC at 8:30 p. m.

WAPAK AIRPORT DEDICATION SET

Extensive Show Planned Sunday at New Field

(Lima News Bureau)

WAPAKONETA, Sept. 4 — An array of Army planes is expected to be an outstanding feature of the all-day dedication of Port Koneta, two and one-half miles north of Wapakoneta, Sunday. Mayor Walter Harrod and other city officials will be special guests at the dedication.

Supporting the dedication of the airport that was built last spring by a group of enthusiastic aviators, is the Chamber of Commerce. The airport committee composed of Lawrence Abbott, C. K. Rockwell and A. W. Klipfel, voiced the C. of C.'s approval today and added that $150 will be given in support of the festivities.

More than 150 visiting planes will be here for ceremonies that will open with a breakfast at the Port at 8 a. m. A light plane contest with private fliers will be held
