Gould Heiress Wants Secret Divorce Trial

PHOENIX, Ariz.—(U.P.)—Attorneys for heiress Gioia Grinditch, 24, will ask the court to keep the press and public away from the trial of divorce charges against her, it was reported today.

The beautiful, brown-eyed great-granddaughter of railroad tycoon Jay Gould was accused of intimacies with several men in a divorce cross complaint filed by her husband, Henry Grinditch, jr., of Rydal, Pa.

Grinditch, a Harvard student and former junior men's ice skating champion, made the same charges in a $250,000 federal court damage suit.

The divorce action will be heard jointly with Grinditch's habeas corpus action to obtain custody of their children, Bill, 3, and Gioia, 2.

He said his wife recorded the alleged intimacies in a diary introduced as a court exhibit when depositions were taken in a closed hearing Saturday.

Grinditch's attorney, former Gov. Philip F. La Follette of Wisconsin, said his client has no objections to a public trial but he probably will not oppose his wife's request for a closed hearing.

The couple married in New York May 17, 1943.
