OGDEN, Utah—(U.P.)—Mrs. Lucille Hammond, director of Red Cross training in an Ogden hospital, has an enthusiastic class.

One of the more eager girls of the group saw a man lying face down in the road.

Immediately the student felt the body for broken bones. As she was about to administer artificial respiration the man looked up and said:

"I don't know what you are trying to do, but I'm trying to get my child's baseball out of this culvert."
