TONIGHT

8:00—KNX — "Talk of the Town" is tonight's Ford Theater vehicle. Originating in Hollywood it stars Ronald Colman in his famous screen role of an astute professor of law who unwittingly harbors a refugee from justice.

7:30—KNX—For the "Pause That Refreshes" a new time spot, but the same delightful combination of Percy Faith's orchestra and Jane Forman, the indomitable songstress, bring you one-half hour of music, old and new.

7:30—KFI—Tonight is Eddie Cantor's turn to receive . . . In recognition of his magnificent achievement through his recent "Give a Gift to a Yank Who Gave" campaign, Bill Stern will present him with a plaque inscribed with a message that will be echoed by all of us.

8:00—KHI—Gregory Hood runs into the problem of modern warfare when he attempts to recover an ancient Chinese idol during his "Casebook" excerpt tonight.

9:30—KECA—In case you have been looking for "Bulldog Drummond" this is it. New time and night but he is still sleuthing, this time for "the Lost Lady," whose disappearance has disturbed some to the point of murder.

SATURDAY

11 A. M.—KECA—This is a red-letter day for opera lovers when the Met presents a revival of Mozart's "Marriage of Figaro." Ann Bollinger, winner of second honors in the Auditions, will bow in the role of Barbarina. Supporting her as Figaro is the new baritone, Italo Tajo.
