TONIGHT

6:30-KFI—Since this Sunday is Mother's Day, Dennis Day decides to earn some extra cash. To accomplish this, he tries to get Al Jolson, his host, to hire him on his show. This requires his entire range of dialects, plus his inimitable song style.

8:00-KIX—For the first time in his life Bob Hope follows the script. . . . at least that is what his contract calls for when he appears as a wife-killer in the play, "Death Has a Shadow," dramatized for the "Suspense" series. Hope's hoping for restraint, for a slip will forfeit his fee.

8:30-KECA—For her last appearance on this show, Jo Stafford will sing "S Wonderful" and "Some Enchanted Evening." A new head and featured girl vocalist will carry on in this spot next week.

8:55-KHJ—A new mystery series, "The Adventures of Peter Salem," will make its debut at this time tonight.

9:30-KFI—Luckless Homer finds himself facing a rumor of his own engagement when his girl, Kathleen, misunderstands a visit to the jewelry store. She presumes it means an imminent proposal. . . . Poor Homer will have to talk fast to get out of this one.
