

DIAL LITES — TONIGHT

- 7:00—KFI—Film Star Mickey Rooney and Folk Singer Eddy Arnold will be the guests of Perry Como on his "Supper Club" tonight. The trio will offer a serious discussion on that new entertainment medium, television, for which they have devised a novelty number, "Television Is the Devil's Own Doing." Eddy Arnold will sing one of his hit folk songs "Why Should I Cry?"
- 7:30—KNX—Screen Actor John Sutton portrays an understudy so ambitious that he chloroforms the leading man to get his chance before the footlights, in "Bid for Fame" on "Skippy Hollywood Theater."
- 8:00—KECA—Jeb Stuart's provocative book, "The Objector," will be up for discussion on "Author Meets the Critic." James Michener, author of "Tales of the South Pacific," will emphasize the virtues, and Lowell Limpus, author of "Fires of Spring," will point out the book's shortcomings.
- 8:30—KHJ—Former President Herbert Hoover, whose speech before the American Newspaper Publishers Association will be broadcast exclusively over this network, is titled "The Voice of World Experience."
- 11:00—KHJ—High lights of the Los Angeles Post Office Centennial Celebration will be aired at this time tonight. Among the celebrities to be heard on the program will be Gov. Earl Warren, Mayor Fletcher Bowron and Postmaster Fanning.
