Special Programs

You and The World, KTSA, 5:15 p.m. — Keith Hutchinson, financial editor of The Nation, who first met Great Britain's Prime Minister many years ago, and has followed his career closely, will give a word sketch of Clement Attlee as a world leader.

One Nation Indivisible, KTSA, 9:30 p.m. — Major General Lewis B. Hershey, director of selective service, will discuss the current status of the draft, a subject on the minds of millions of men. General Hershey will be interviewed by Charles Collingwood, C.B.S. White House correspondent.

Dramatic Programs

Hallmark Playhouse, KTSA, 9 p.m.—Irene Dunn, versatile screen star who plays 80-year-old Queen Victoria in her most recent film, will reenact the story of an equally long-lived Victorian heroine, when she stars in "The Story of Florence Nightingale." Novelist James Hilton will appeal for 100,000 new volunteer workers to aid the American Red Cross defense program.

Suspense, KTSA, 8 p.m. — Miriam Hopkins plays Effie, one of three presumably nice, quiet, old ladies, who become engaged in a thrilling mystery when the stage is set for murder.

California Caravan, KMAC, 7 p.m.—This drama tells how the "Indian Agent" solved a problem besetting troublesome Indians in a pioneer Western town.

Mr. Keen, KTSA, 7:30 p.m.—A man whose wife is accused of murder, on the testimony of a neighbor who overheard her talking with the victim a few seconds before shots were fired, seeks the help of "The Tracer of Lost Persons" to solve a great mystery.

F.B.I. In Peace and War, KTSA, 7 p.m. — A double-crossed crook has his face altered in a nefarious attempt to seek revenge, but the F.B.I. steps in to put all the principals behind bars.
