Magic Key Program to Observe Anniversary of Herbert's Birth

It's just a rehearsal, but Edward G. Robinson seems to be in dead earnest as he makes a racket-busting drive for the "Big Town" program heard over the Columbia network Tuesday nights. The lady in the Hat is Claire Trevor, who plays the part of Lorelei, reporter who weekly risks her neck (in the scripts) to help her boss expose some form of modern banditry. Robinson has the role of Steve Wilson, managing editor of the "Illustrated Press." Dark-haired Arlene Francis is seen pleading with "Steve" to help save her man from a mob of crooks.

The 80th anniversary of the birth of Victor Herbert will be commemorated during the Magic Key program when the Victor Light Opera company, conducted by Nathaniel Shilkret, features a full hour of the American composer's works. Soloists to be heard include Morton Bowe, tenor; Anne Jamison, soprano, and Thomas L. Thomas, baritone. Stations WIBA and WENR will air the program in this area.
