THREE PALM TREES ARE AN important feature of "Mr. Roberts," and few stage properties get as much rough treatment as these potted palms. "Mr. Roberts" will be at the Parkway theater for three performances Friday and Saturday, Nov. 21, with Tod Andrews in the title role. Boxoffice seat sale will open Thursday, Nov. 6; mail orders are being received now.

Well, about those palm trees:

During the play, they are hurled overboard at climactic moments, to the joy of the audience.

Because of this rough handling—night after night and sometimes twice a day—the leaves have to be wired on to withstand the violent tugs of Mr. Roberts and Ensign Pulver. To prevent breakage, an assistant stage manager stands offstage to catch the trees.

✦ ✦ ✦

'BILLY BUDD': Tryouts for roles in "Billy Budd" will be held from 3 to 5 p.m. and from 7 to 10 p.m. Tuesday through Thursday in the Memorial Union, Director Johnathan Curvin has announced.

The controversial play will be staged Dec. 9-13 by Wisconsin Players, and more than 25 men are needed to fill the cast.

Any student may try for a part if he has completed his first semester and is in good academic standing.

FEATURE: Ivanhoe
TYPE: Historical drama
CAST: Ivanhoe, Robert Taylor; Lady Rowena, Joan Fontaine; Rebecca, Elizabeth Taylor; Brian de Bois-Gulbert, George Sanders; Cedric, Finlay Currie.
REVIEWER: Wally Wikoff
STORY: Sir Walter Scott's immortal classic is presented in technicolor in a story that doesn't stray too far from the original, simplified, of course, for juvenile tastes . . . Seeking to restore imprisoned King Richard the Lionhearted to his throne, Ivanhoe is aided by Robin Hood and his band, Isaac, the Israelite, and his daughter, Rebecca, and, finally, Ivanhoe's own father who once renounced him . . . the battles with Bois-Gulbert and the trial of Rebecca are high lights of the film.
HIGH POINTS: Exceptional realism in battles, especially the storming of the castle by Robin Hood's outlaws and the final battle between Ivanhoe and Bois-Gulbert . . . Perfect casting throughout with the relatively unkown Finlay Currie again doing a top job in a character role . . . adroit handling of the racial issue which predominates Sir Walter Scott's story.
LOW POINTS: The photofinish ending where good conquers evil just before the reel runs out.
VERDICT: Excellent.
