

"We, The People" To Return After Political Interruption

Lowell Thomas Will Headline Program With Experiences In Arabia; Hollywood Cameraman To Be Heard

"We, The People," after a two-week absence from the air because of the political campaign, will return with Gabriel Heatter and his special guests Tuesday over WABC from 9:00 to 9:30 p. m..

Lowell Thomas, news commentator, author and explorer, will headline the program to tell of his experiences with the late Lawrence of Arabia. Vernon Dahart will explain how he wrote "The Prisoner's Song" as a joke—and made a fortune. W. K. Moore will relate the manner in which he and Sam Smith were re-elected co-mayors of Sandy Springs, South Carolina.

Teddy Tetzlaff, a man who has to figure all the angles as one of Paramount's cameramen, has been given a free hand to say what he wants about the difficulties of photographing Bob Hope when the Pepsodent program goes on WEAf on Tuesday, at 10:00 p. m.

A group of novelty tunes will be featured on the Horace Heidt Treasure Chest program over WEAf at 8:30 p. m., with Ronnie Kemper as soloist.

players will be tackled by an equal number of female gridiron fans when Julia Sanderson and Frank Crumit present "The Battle of the Sexes" over WEAf Tuesday, at 9:00 p. m.

"The Coward", Guy De Maupassant's story of a romantic dandy who commits suicide rather than keep an appointment for a duel with an expert pistol shot, will be Nelson Olmsted's story-drama, Tuesday, at 10:00 p. m. over WJZ.
