

Bill Stern "Detects" On Ellery Queen Mystery

When Ellery Queen solves "The Adventure of the Man Who Wanted Cash" Saturday (WEAF, 7-30 p. m., EWT), Bill Stern, sports announcer and sports authority, will sit in the guest arm chair to detect a play-by-play on clues.

Stern, noted for his "split vision" ability to watch the entire play on the football field, will have the chance to try out his powers on a complicated mystery. It involves a restaurant king who sells out for a million dollars in cash and then disappears.

Bob Murphy, announcer, will turn actor when Stephen Vincent Benet's "O'Halloran's Luck" is repeated on "Author's Playhouse" Saturday (WEAF 8:30 p. m., EWT).

Murphy will have the part of Tim, who comes to America to seek his fortune and his sweetheart, Kitty Malone, and who finds also a bit of the old country in the person of a leprechaun. Kitty will be played by Geraldine Kay and Rory, the leprechaun, by Charles Egelston. Homer Heck will direct.

Musical instruments will be protagonists on "National Barn Dance" Saturday (WEAF, 9 p. m., EWT) when the Haylofters present music by and about the inanimate members of an orchestra. The Ensemble directed by Glenn Welty presents "Strike Up The Band," "Ghost of the Violin," "Play Fiddle Play" and "Ragtime Violin."

Whitey (Duke of Paducah) Ford will report on the high cost of living on the "Grand Ole Opry" Saturday (WEAF, 10:30 p. m., EWT).

Roy Acuff, hillbilly singing star and M. C., will speculate on "Things That Might Have Been." and Tommy Magnasson, newcomer to the Opry gang, will do "Black
